Chapter 1 by Olivia Wasson

After the writing of Shakespeare, time evolved into a society of new land. Scotland folks generations later moved to the new land of American after the British did. They believed that this land will be great. Our story targets one girl from a generation of heroes.

Penny Bennett lived in the small growing state of Virginia in a house with one mother, a dog that barks so loud the neighbors think it's the Indians, and her grandmother, Ross. Penny was sixteen at the time, with medium hair length of the color bronze. They lived productively outside of the apple grove. Her grandmother at night, would look out the window just to find the thoughts she lost days ago we believe. But that is not the point of this story. He is where we begin....

At the break of dawn, Penny was pebbling up the staircase to her grandmother. While she was walking, she saw a opened door to a room Penny has never seen of her eyes before. She peeked in just a mintute to find a box. Curiously Penny opens the box to find.....
